

Responses are scored on a six-point response format, where 1 = Strongly Disagree and 6 = Strongly Agree.

There are a number of different reasons why people are involved in community service or volunteer activities. Please indicate whether you agree or disagree with the following statements by circling the appropriate indicator:

1. I am confident in my ability to provide direct service to another person.
2. I am confident in my ability to help set up and support community service organizations that are addressing immediate community needs.
3. I am confident in my ability to advocate for social change.
4. Over the course of my life, I would feel most comfortable having an impact by providing direct service to another person.
5. Over the course of my life, I would feel most comfortable having an impact by helping to set up and support community service organizations that are addressing immediate community needs.
6. Over the course of my life, I would feel most comfortable having an impact by advocating for social change.
7. I would feel most enthusiastic about recruiting others to provide direct service to another person.
8. I would feel most enthusiastic about recruiting others to help set up and support community service organizations that are addressing immediate community needs.
9. I would feel most enthusiastic about recruiting others to advocate for social change.
10. People who only provide direct service to another person do not see the big picture.
11. People who set up and support community service organizations fail to really improve social conditions.
12. People who advocate for social change are wasting their time.
